

THREE-DAY OPEN COURSES IN LEADERSHIP & MANAGEMENT

Barrow Hill Roundhouse is delighted to announce a ground-breaking partnership with Clemorton Training & Development, an Institute of Leadership & Management accredited organisation, which will offer a unique opportunity to develop and motivate your management team in this unique setting.

Three-Day Open Courses in Leadership & Management with full accreditation from the Institute of Leadership & Management

Practical leadership and management skills have been under-invested areas for many years as companies have prioritised economic expansion over the personal development of employees. To celebrate the launch of this exciting partnership we are offering a FREE place on a Clemorton Management & Leadership course at Barrow Hill Roundhouse. This will give a key member of your team the opportunity to experience the best in quality training from Clemorton to see what benefits could be achieved by engaging others from your organisation. It will also provide an opportunity to learn from fellow professionals in a unique setting where delegates can become fully absorbed and open to learning.

About Barrow Hill Roundhouse:

Barrow Hill Roundhouse is well known as the country's last surviving operational Roundhouse. Whilst celebrating over 150 years of railway history, it is also a modern railway depot serving many of the UK's major railway operating companies. It is home to Newcastle University's railway research facility and a centre for Doncaster-based railway training company Intertrain. The 16-acre site has a comprehensive range of ancillary facilities required in today's railway operations environment.

With good rail and road connections, a large car park and on-site catering, the Roundhouse is a popular choice for industry demonstrations and product launches. It is also an interesting and different venue for corporate away days. Further information can be found at www.barrowhillcommercial.com

About Clemorton:

Clemorton Training & Development was formed by experienced senior leaders with an appreciation of the importance of people development on the levels of success in any organisation. Our belief is that staff development is vital; however, it must not overshadow the need for task accomplishment in the workplace.

Clemorton is a global management consulting organisation based in the UK with national, European and worldwide coverage. We are a trusted advisor for performance management and personal development. Clients include Network Rail, East Midlands Trains, East Coast Trains, Swissport, DHL Worldwide, University College London, Sussex University and Lloyds Banking Group.

We help organisations make distinctive, lasting, and substantial improvements to the performance of their employees. We tackle their most difficult issues and provide practical solutions. Our expertise and experience will motivate people to reach their own and organisational goals. Our hands-on experience provides no nonsense solutions for senior managers who want to develop themselves into effective leaders. Individuals will learn a lot about themselves and their effectiveness. The Clemorton approach is based on developing strengths in order to achieve excellence.
